petition which will quite wipe out all American industries. There is a tariff act which imposes sufficient duties, as for instance in the case of the Danbury Hatters it is admitted that the duty is enough, and five per cent. more than enough. But if by any chance there is an industry which needs more or less tariff, a tariff commission has been established, non-partisan, composed of both Republicans and Democrats, which has power to determine the adjustment along strictly scientific lines.

There is moreover a statute new to the United States which equips the president with full power to prevent that dumping of goods which these men automatically chanting the traditions of a dead and gone time assert will follow the close of the war. Every economist who knows a typewriter from an automobile knows that at least for several years after the war America will be faced by the difficulty of finding men to work. The present scarcity of labor is sure to increase. And there is the difficulty that so much will be shipped to Europe that there will not be enough for Americans.

The danger is not as the ancient graybeards declare, that America will be swamped by an influx of European goods. The danger is that Europe will draw so tremendously on American stocks as to leave in the American pantry but one piece of pumpkin pie when there ought to be two or three.

There comes a time, when the dead past must bury its dead. Nov. 7 is the time. The tariff is out of politics. Pull the Second Lever.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

HIS PLEDGE TO THE PROGRESSIVES

"The party is solid; and it is the firm determination of the rank and file, no less than that of the leaders, to preserve its political entity, its solidarity and integrity. This year we shall enter undaunted as a national party on another national campaign. I will never rest content until every single principle enunciated by us is put into practical operation in this nation. This movement will never go back, of one thing the disciples of any easy and whatever may betide in the future, opportunism may rest assured. I will never abandon the principles to which we Progressives have pledged ourselves and I will never abandon the men and women who drew around me to battle for those principles. They and I stand with our faces toward the morning; we will never be sundered from one another, and we will never yield the ground we have taken or flinch from the fight to which we are pledged.

"I am about to sail for six months' absence from this country. Next spring I shall return to devote myself with whatever of strength I have to working with you for the success of the Progressive Party and of the great principles for which the Progressive Party stands. Win or lose, whatever the outcome, I am with you, and I am for this cause, to fight to the end. The spirit which quickeneth is among us; our souls have been stirred to the depths; and I warn our opponents that the fight has only just begun."

NOVEMBER

The first appearance of November in the calendar of Rome was as the ninth month, and its name was derived from "novem," meaning nine. When Numa added January and February, in 713 B. C., November became the eleventh month. The Roman senators sought to change the name of the month to Tiberius, who was born in November, in imitation of July, derived from Julius, and August, from Augustus. The Emperor refused to consider this honor, saying, "What will you do, conscript fathers, if you have thirteen children?" By the ancient Saxons, November was styled "Wintmonath," or "wind months," because of the gales which are so prevalent at this season of the year. November also bore the name of "Blotmonath," meaning "bloody month," because in ancient times it was the custom to slaughter cattle in November, the meat to be salted for use during the winter. In London it was long known as "gloomy month" or "suicide month," since the leaden skies and choking fogs, combined with frequent downpours of cold rain, so affected the spirits of Londoners that suicides have nearly always been more prevalent in November than in any other month of the year.

SAXE-ALTENBURG

That all is not peace and harmony in the camp of German rulers is indicated by the recent registration of his command by Duke Ernest II, of Saxe-Altenburg. It is said that from the first the Saxon duke has often been at odds with the Kaiser and the Prussian members of his staff, and apparently this difference of opinion has reached a crisis. The Saxon rulers—including the King of Saxony, the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar, and the Dukes of Saxe-Altenburg, Saxe-Coburg and Gotha and Saxe-Meiningen, have never accepted the Prussian dominance in imperial affairs with very good grace. Even the Duke of Saxe-Meiningen, who married the Kaiser's sister, Princess Charlotte, used to be on such bad terms with his imperial brother-in-law that he would never meet him. Saxe-Altenburg, originally Hildburghausen, is a tiny patchwork duchy in central Germany, and consists of two detached and almost equal parts, with twelve small exclaves, having a total area of 1,000 square miles. Before the war the Duke's subjects numbered about a quarter of a million, but large numbers of the men of his little realm have been slain in battle. It is rumored that one of the complaints of Duke Ernest has been that his subjects have been persistently forced to bear the brunt of battles, with the result that they have suffered much more in proportion to numbers than those of more populous states, especially Prussia. Duke Ernest II. is forty-five years old and has ruled Saxe-Altenburg since 1908. He is descended from Ernest the Pious, Duke of Saxony. Ernest I., the first Duke of Saxe-Altenburg, died about two centuries ago.

SOCIALISTS SPENT $18,483.

Washington, Nov. 4.—A campaign financial statement for the Socialist party filed with the clerk of the House today showed contributions of $24,558 up to Oct. 10 and expenditures of $18,483. The report showed that most of the expenditures had been in Oklahoma, Wisconsin, New York, Indiana and Nevada, where the Socialists have congressional candidates. All contributions were in small sums.

H. T. Kurtz, Health Officer of Highland Falls, N. Y., has directed the police to search for the King who poisoned a well on the William Jacobus land, adjoining the country estate of Mrs. J. P. Morgan.

CONVERSIONS TO WILSON BANNER INCREASES DAILY

Many Prominent Men in Kentucky Desert Ranks of Republican Party.

New York, Nov. 4.—Reports of conversions to the cause of President Wilson continue to pour into the Democratic National Headquarters. The originator of the "full dinner pail" slogan, used in the McKinley campaign, is one of those who have come out for the President. He is David G. Baillie of Los Angeles, Cal. In Kentucky many prominent Republicans and Progressives have announced their intention to vote for the President. Among them are Judge Randolph H. Blair, one-time Republican candidate for circuit judge of Louisville; J. L. Belcher, a wealthy farmer of Bowling Green; Audrey Adkins, a Progressive leader of Covington; Dr. H. L. Henden, that many years a Republican worker, of Pineville; George T. Ragsdale, instructor in the Louisville Boys' High school; J. R. Eskridge, former Republican member of the legislature and county prosecutor of Breckinridge county; B. F. Broder, Progressive State elector, of Bowling Green. Another convert is G. F. Newburger of Joplin, Mo., Progressive candidate for state senator in 1912 and formerly a Republican. He says: "I believe Woodrow Wilson when he states: 'We have not only carried out the pledges of our own party, but we have almost completed the platform of the Progressive Party.'"

A Republican all his life, J. C. Marsh, of Louisville, Ind., announced he will vote for Wilson, says: "The people of this country are in the position of stockholders in a great corporation, whose President has been paying dividends on the common stock. The concern is flourishing and there is no reason to make a change."

Many old soldiers are among those coming out in support of the President. A. E. Streeter of Lincoln, Neb., who was a member of the First Wisconsin Cavalry, writes: "I have voted for every Republican candidate for the Presidency from Lincoln to Taft, but I am not for Hughes. I have no use for traitors."

Judge Richard Winsor of Seattle, Wash., writes: "Every move that Hughes and every move that the millionaires behind Hughes make is making thousands of votes for Wilson."

D. W. Perkins, a Republican, of Saco, Me.: "I shall vote for Wilson in 1916 as I doubtless should have done for Lincoln in 1864."

After interviewing 600 Progressive delegates from all sections of the country, Owen S. Jones, Progressive leader of Albany County, N. Y., expresses amazement at the preponderance of Wilson sentiment. "With the exception of one delegate," says Mr. Jones, "every man I talked to was strongly in favor of the President's re-election."

Prof. Wendell Henderson of the Yale Medical School, one of the leaders in the Progressive movement in Connecticut, says: "Any American who puts American first must vote for President Wilson."

Other Progressives, who will support Wilson, are Wallace H. Thayer and Frank C. Ferguson, both of Buffalo. "I am a Republican, but Wilson will have my vote," says William H. Ebsary, a contractor, of Buffalo.

"I supported Roosevelt in 1912," says Judge William Osborn Parsons of West Virginia, "but now he has abandoned us and stands hand in hand with Penrose, Root and the other reactionaries. I am for Wilson."

George F. Hedrick, President of the Painters' and Paperhangers' International organization, heretofore a Republican, in a speech recently at Albany, told members of his organization that he would vote for President Wilson.

Another railroad head also has announced his approval of President Wilson's administration. Emory L. Coblenz, president of the Hagerstown & Frederick Railroad, says: "Everyone must have a mental picture of the domestic achievements of the Wilson administration, and everyone must have noted by this time the utter failure of the severest critics to attack these achievements successfully."

"Wilson is the right man in the right place at the right time," says Prof. E. S. Loomis of Wooster, O. "I am for Wilson now for the same reason that my father was for Lincoln in 1864."

Capt. Mehemah H. Means of Ellsworth, Me., says he "was a Lincoln Republican" but is now a "Progressive Democrat" and will support Wilson. "I don't want a green hand at the wheel until the gale is over," says Capt. Means, who is an old sailing master.

"I am not a Democrat; I am a Republican of the Lincoln stripe, but not a Republican of the Barnes-Penrose-Roosevelt stripe," says Dr. Frank W. Brown of Washington, D. C., who has come out for President Wilson's re-election.

Not only has Dr. Charles T. Baylis added conversions. A prominent Progressive of New York, a prominent Progressive, announced that he will support President Wilson, but he has gone on the stump. "Give the President four years more to crown the great work he has begun," declares Dr. Baylis. Joseph Fielder, secretary of the Jefferson County (Ohio) Trades and Labor Assembly, and hitherto always a Republican has become a strong advocate of President Wilson's re-election.

The Rev. Dr. Paul Moore Strayer, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church of Rochester, N. Y., also is for Wilson. "I know of no other man," he says, "who could have handled more successfully the Mexican and foreign situations."

Declaring that he expects to remain a Republican, but must vote for Wilson, Richard A. Soules of Columbus, O., has issued a statement saying that party lines must not be drawn this year.

Thirteen residents of Ligonier, Ind., who voted for Pops, Socialist, in 1912, have announced that they will all vote for Wilson. "We see in the American law a step forward in the interest of all workmen," they say. "Labor has received a square deal at Washington."

REAL PROTECTION ALREADY GRANTED U. S. FACTORIES

President Wilson's Unfair Competition Act Already Passed Provides for Double Duty.

Democratic statesmanship has provided Real Protection for the American working man, the American business man and American industry.

The "Unfair Competition" Act, passed under President Wilson, (Title VIII of the Revenue Bill, Sections, Sections 800 to 806) provides:

That when articles of Foreign Manufacture are sought to be imported into this country at a price lower than the cost of manufacture here and come into unfair competition with American industry, such articles are subject to "double duty."

The foreigner won't dump his goods on us under this law.

"Any person who violates the provisions of this Act, or conspires with any other person to violate it," is punishable by a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for one year.

"Any person injured in his business or property by reason of any violation of this act, may sue therefor without regard to the amount in controversy and shall recover threefold the damages sustained and the cost of suit including a reasonable attorney's fee."

That will stop the dumping of the product of the crimples of Europe that Republicans are scaring you about.

Fifty-four years of Republican protective tariffs, the burden of which fell on the consumer, failed to reveal any similar law for the real protection of American labor and American business.

Democratic statesmanship has given real protection. Don't let the bogeyman scare you. Vote for Woodrow Wilson.

JESUS CARRANZA RETURNS TO RENSSELAER POLY

Troy, N. Y., Nov. 4.—"Peace will be restored to Mexico when certain troublesome factions are done away with. The better class appreciate what General Carranza has done and will do," said Jesus Carranza, nephew of the Mexican General, and former aid on his staff, who has returned to the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute to resume his course in engineering that was interrupted two years ago by Villa's outbreak.

"Most of these alleged disturbances the people read about are merely manufactured and there is not half as much internal trouble in Mexico as some interests would have people believe."

"The report that the people in Mexico are starving is also garbled. I have been all through Mexico, even in the poorest sections, and everywhere I assure you these conditions of starvation do not exist."

Mr. Carranza refuses to discuss the presence of American "expeditionary force in Mexico, and to answer questions relative to decisions of the Mexican government, and to the president. He would make no comment on President Wilson's policy.

BRITAIN'S MUNITIONS PLANS.

London, Nov. 4.—By next March Great Britain will be independent of American steel, said Dr. Christopher Addison, parliamentary secretary of munitions, in an interview discussing the work of the Ministry of Munitions. The augmented munitions program for the coming year, said Dr. Addison, would require 315,000 additional men workers and 100,000 more women.

SAUERKRAUT GOES HIGHER.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 4.—Cabbage prices are so high at present that many makers of sauerkraut in western Pennsylvania declare their intention of curtailing production until values come down. A Pittsburgh manufacturer announced he would raise the price of all kraut in stock $5 a sack and make no more for the present.
